FW Marketing opens new office at Electric Works

On Friday, May 19, Fort Wayne Marketing celebrated an official ribbon cutting ceremony at its new office suite at Electric Works, 1690 Broadway, Building 19, Suite 10, Fort Wayne.

The move marks a significant step in the firm's history and opens doors for new growth and opportunity. Since its founding in 2018, the agency has grown from a one-person operation to a full-service team, offering a wide range of marketing services from brand strategy and video production to social media management, web development and more.

"We specialize in strategic partnerships with mid-sized, often family-owned businesses (the makers) and nonprofits (the difference makers)," said John Paff, the agency's founder. "We are deeply committed to our regional community – especially to those who want to catalyze further growth and success."

The new suite of offices accommodates the firm's growing team and offers an on-site video and photography studio, as well as well-appointed meeting spaces and all the amenities available at Electric Works.

"Our name is Fort Wayne Marketing," said Paff, "but we have served clients across Northeast Indiana, as well as Los Angeles, Denver, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Baltimore, New York, and greater Washington, D.C. As a Midwest agency with a national reach, we offer fair deals, deliver real value, and strive to treat people with integrity, honesty, and kindness. It's just how we do business."

"With additional offices in downtown Huntington and at the Northeast Indiana Innovation Center, the firm is rapidly developing a regional footprint to serve its expanding client base. Northeast Indiana has a very vibrant vision and plan for the future," said Paff, "and we are excited to be part of it."

Huntington County's Early Childhood Coalition

In the fall of 2022, a group of community stakeholders convened to discuss challenges and opportunities in early learning and childcare across Huntington County. From those discussions, it was clear that immediate action was necessary and there was a shared commitment to tackle the work together. The Early Childhood Coalition of Huntington County was born.

We were not alone either, Huntington County has joined a growing list of county coalitions that make up the newly formed Northeast Indiana Regional Early Childhood Coalition. Thanks to an investment from Ambassador Enterprises, a legacy-minded private equity firm headquartered in Fort Wayne, coalitions throughout the region have worked with consultant Gensys Design to assemble collaborative networks of early learning and childcare advocates with an objective to build better communities that support early childhood development and care.

Committed local stakeholders currently include the Community Foundation of Huntington County, Huntington County Community School Corporation, City of Huntington, Bendix Commercial Vehicle Systems, Pathfinder Services Kids Kampus, United Way of Huntington County, Fortitude Fund and leaders in our health, financial services and faith communities.

"We know investing in reliable, high quality and affordable childcare is the best thing we can do to improve the quality of life for Huntington families across the entire community," said Richard Strick, Mayor of the City of Huntington. "Those early, formative years have life-changing impacts down the road."

The Coalition's mission is to create positive early childhood experiences through community collaboration. "This collaboration is absolutely essential to the success of our students and will make a significant difference in the lives of our kids and families," states John Trout, Superintendent of Huntington County Community School Corporation.

"Connecting families and caregivers with proper services, resources and training can have a large impact on public health," explains Dr. Janelle Maxwell-Pflieder, physician at Cardinal Family Medicine. "By proactively addressing gaps in early learning and childcare, our community can significantly influence future health outcomes."

To facilitate and lead the work of the Coalition, a full-time, paid coordinator is currently being sought. Although not a direct childcare position, the coordinator will be charged with aligning systems that create a community where quality early learning and childcare are accessible for all families.

"In an employee survey, we found issues regarding childcare cost, hours and availability have led to increased stress and missed work," states Tricia Miller, HR manager at Bendix. "This has a huge impact on our productivity and employee retention."

Early childhood professionals are essential for the nurturing and developmental environment needed for our children to succeed and for the economic prosperity of our families. Those interested in partnering with the Coalition, through volunteer and/or monetary support, are encouraged to contact Matt Ditzler at matt@huntingtonccf.org or call (260) 356-8878.
